

MEZZANINE FLOORS

Office & Storage

Many commercial premises offer excessive, unused headroom. A mezzanine floor can transform this wasted space into productive office or storage space with minimal disruption, allowing businesses to expand within existing premises.

Intelligent design solutions and high standards of finish make Hi-Level's mezzanine floors suitable for any use, from a simple storage area to a prestige office environment.

We offer a range of ancillary products including staircases and handrails, which can be aligned with corporate colour schemes.

Hi-Level takes responsibility for ensuring all Building Regulations are met and will take care of any fire requirements.

Our value engineering approach, achieved with our proprietary mezzanine floor production system, ensures we are consistently competitive.

Case Studies

Aircraft parts distributor

Conversion of a warehouse into a distribution facility, including addition of a mezzanine floor for additional office space and complete refurbishment and redecoration of the building inside and out.

The project incorporated a range of energy efficient technologies for a modern and functional workplace with low environmental impact.

Storage system company

This mezzanine floor was commissioned by one of Hi-Level's distributors for their own use.

The company specialises in industrial storage systems and the additional space afforded by the mezzanine allows them to store their extensive range of shelving, racking, partitioning and other items of stock.

Packaging company

This 852m<sup>2</sup> single tier mezzanine floor was built over the top of a line of conveyors.

It was built in seven phases to allow the conveyors to continue to operate, avoiding any interruption in production.

This entailed careful planning of materials movement and floor installation, and coordinating closely with the client.
